HANOVER GLEE CLUB DESERVES COMMENDATION

Snap and Life With Soid Worth in Entertainments—Gentlemanly Conduat Marked.

GLEE CLUB CONCERT
On the evening of Thursday, April 11, the members of the Hanover College Glee Club gave the twenty-eighth concert of their long and successful season. Having rested a week from their last very tiresome trip, every man was in the best of condition for the home entertainment and the students were very fortunate in getting the benefit of an organization of musicians which had so many times met the approval of talented music-lovers thru-out the state. The entire student body turned out on masse to see if others judged rightly the talent of the club and the general sentiment of the school is that elsewhere the warblers had been under estimated.

An entertainment could not have been better planned for the pleasure of the audience and its execution was most excellent. Snap and life was everywhere evident and at all times accompanied by finished musical talent. With its encores, the club as a whole made nine appearances and not once was it out of perfect unison. In addition to the chorus work there were two numbers furnished by Winslow, the reader, and also by the quartet while Gilbert and Allison each rendered a most pleasing number.

When one turns to the point of determining who of the club contributed most to its success the mind centers without hesitation upon "Les" Winslow. His Glee Club work was an undertaking under the strain of which there is not another in the entire student body who could have held up, but to this must add the work of the class-room both as student and instructor, care of the library, dramatic club plays and other time-devouring activities of student life. To do this took a mighty good man, one willing to sacrifice time and energy to the honor of his school. One cannot but admire Winslow for the fact that in everything, as in the glee club, things he does are done in most excellent shape.

The work of Gilbert and Allison was also very good and it seems as though these two men were given about equal praise by up-state critics. Gilbert could win anyone's approval with the catchiness and the pleasing manner in which his work is rendered. Allison must be given credit for mastery as well as the sweetness of his voice.

Both men are artists in their line and it would be a very difficult task to replace their numbers on the program.

The quartet's work was one of the most entertaining features of the performance. Their rendering of the "Rosary", and "Margarita" was perfect

SOPHOMORES ELECT REVONAH STAFF.

J. Speed Rogers Will Be Editor-in-Chief of Next Junior Annual.

At a meeting of the Sophomore Class Tuesday afternoon the board of editors for next year's Junior annual, the Revonah, was elected.

The staff will be: J. Speed Rogers editor-in-chief; Lawrence H. Capehart, assistant editor-in-chief; Gayle H. Hufford, business manager; Elmer Cravens, assistant business manager.

The chairmen of the various committees are: R. P. Kehoe, athletic; Sam Reiley, humor; Miss Freda Bach, calendar; Miss Caretta Baleser, literary; Earl Swann, art, and M. M. Montgomery, advertising.

1911-1912 Catalogue.

The 1912 Catalogue appears as the April number of the College Bulletin. It contains the official roster of the College, including Trustees, Faculty, Officers, and students enrolled during the current academic year; a brief historical sketch; a discussion of the difference between a College and a University; a statement of requirements for admission and graduation, of the courses of study in detail, of student expenses, and of the peculiar advantages offered by Hanover to students. It also contains a concise description of buildings and working equipment, of student organizations, of prizes and distinctions, and the record of the year. The catalogue will be mailed without charge to any address upon application.

The Summer Session.

The Summer Quarter will open June 13 for a twelve weeks period. The course will be primarily for teachers and particularly for high school graduates preparing to teach. The quarter will be divided into two terms of six weeks each. The work for the most part will be in charge of the regular faculty. Hanover is a charming place at all times of the year, but especially in the summer. Its elevation and outlook upon the river, together with the shade everywhere makes it a pleasant place for summer study. The expenses are quite moderate.

Pan-Hellenic.

The big annual inter-fraternity function will be given tomorrow in Assembly Hall. The Pan-Hellenic committee, consisting of Messrs. Paul Dowell, Sigma Chi, chairman; and R. P. Kehoe, Phi Delta Theta; Clinton Moffett, Phi Gamma Delta; and Sam Reiley, Beta Theta Pi, has completed arrangements and the affair promises to be a brilliant success. It will be informal. A number of out-of-town guests are expected.

John Eckert's Sons have a new announcement on page 3.

WHAT DR. WILEY THINKS OF HANOVER.

Distinguished Alumnus Believes in Small Colleges—Hanover Best of Them All.

Dr. Wiley recently expressed himself as follows:

"I have on many occasions both public and private had the opportunity, as well as the pleasure, of saying a good word for the small colleges all over the country. I think it is highly important that a boy, especially in the early parts of his education, i. e., those parts looking to the ordinary degree of B. S. or B. A., should be in personal touch with his teachers. In a very large institution this is quite impossible, while in the small college it is not only possible but easily attainable.

Hanover, among the small colleges of Indiana, presents many special attractions for the young. The beauty of the scenery, the salubrity of its climate, the freedom from the ordinary temptations to which young boys often succumb, the high moral tone of the community, and the traditions of the old institution itself all help to mold the character in the proper way. I don't believe a young person can spend four years at Hanover without being impressed with all of the factors which I have mentioned.

I should not fail to speak of the fact that the poor boy has a chance at Hanover because there the expenses of living and of tuition are low and it is possible to be respected and honored at Hanover even if one's clothes are not of the latest cut and of the finest material. My own experience at Hanover seems to me a justification of all I have said.

The financial conditions which surrounded me during my youth were such that I could not have possibly attended a distant and expensive institution of learning. Hanover, therefore, was, so far as my education is concerned, the greatest gift that came to me in my youth. I consider that it was a fortunate circumstance that I was born in its vicinity and knew of its excellence and opportunities from personal observation and experience.

I have frequently stated that I do not know of any institution in the United States where for the money expended opportunity offers so much in the education of youth as at Hanover and the greater my experience the deeper my conviction in the matter.

Y. M. C. A. Cabinet.

L. O. Winslow, President.
Sam Riley, Vice President.
Uri Averitt, Secretary-Treasurer.
Gayle Hucord, Second Vice President.

Paul Gordon, '14, has been out of college this week with a case of mumps. He, like Hufford, was probably exposed to the disease while on the last tour of the Glee Club.

HANOVER MAY HAVE ELECTRIC LIGHT

WALKUP GALLEY FIVE
Prospects that Line Will be Run From Madison Power Station to Hanover

CONFERENCE HELD MONDAY

Superintendent Samuel G. Boyd, of the Madison Light and Railway Co., held a conference at the Hanover Deposit-Bank Monday evening with a number of the Hanover citizens, President Millis and representatives of the faculty and fraternities, in regard to furnishing the town and college with current from the power plant in Madison. A line would be run from the end of the car line in Madison, down the river to the college hill, a distance of about five miles. Mr. Boyd asked that the number who could be expected to patronize the line be ascertained and if the proper number can be obtained the prospects are that the classic shades of Hanover will soon be displaced by the modern electric light. Dr. Millis offered to place an arc light on the campus and one in front of the Dormitory if the own fathers would see to lighting the remainder of College Avenue. The Dorm light proposition was very ungratefully received by several students present. A proposal to light the lawn about the Dorm met with a storm of protest. All jokes aside however, the committee appointed is working seriously on the electric light proposition. Its value in the progress of Hanover will be immense as many who have walked the streets when the moon refused to shine will testify. Most of the college folks have pledged themselves to use electricity if the line is extended here and the matter now rests with the business men and other residents of Hanover.

Social Functions

Beta Theta Pi entertained its friends and Alumni at an annual dance on last Friday evening. The event took place at the chapter hall which was artistically decorated for the occasion. Special music was furnished and another feature of the evening was the work of Mr. Elmer Cravens as a crayon artist. Light refreshments were served during the evening. The out of town guests were Miss Leland of Madison, Ind., Miss Harriet Elliot, Wanamaker, Ind., Mr. F. M. Fisher, New Washington, Ind, Robert Stanton, Carl Bach, Vinton Matthews, William Millar and Thomas Luckett, all of Madison. The chapersons were Professor and Mrs. Hadley, Miss Harding and Professor Souter.

The Seniors have petitioned the faculty to do away with the time honored practice of having several speakers from the class in the commencement day exercises.

THE MASS MEETING.

Last night the Press Club initiated the first of a series of student mass meetings. The object of these meetings will be to bring the student body together as a united body of Hanoverians and to do honor to the men comprising the baseball team that will represent Hanover this season, showing these men that Hanover stands behind them enthusiastically in every game. The Press Club hopes that more enthusiasm for the college teams can thus be created by giving the student body an opportunity to express the true Hanover sentiment that after all every student possesses.

DR. WILEY, THE COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER.

Hanover College has been especially fortunate for many years in securing the services of some of the most prominent men of the country as speakers at the annual commencement exercises. And a noteworthy fact is, that these speakers are "Sons" of Hanover College. Last year the eminent educator, Dr. Patterson, president emeritus of Kentucky State University, gave the annual address on commencement day. This year Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, former United States Chemist, and world renowned pure food specialist, will deliver the final address to the graduating class. Dr. Wiley is an enthusiastic Hanoverian and his address on commencement day will prove one of the most interesting features of commencement week.

THE PRIMARY ORATORICAL.

During commencement week it has been the custom to hold the annual Primary Oratorical Contest and this custom is to be continued this year. The winner represents the college in the yearly contest at Indianapolis. The primary contests in the past have been of a fairly high standard but the number of competitors have been entirely too small for a college contest of this nature.

This year there seems to be abundance of available material both among the co-eds and the men of the various literary societies. So too has there been an abundance in former years—that is, before the contest. This annual event is a great opportunity; the winner represents the college in the Up-State contest and the other contestants are not losers for they have taken a long step toward becoming better citizens. The reason for this last statement is the fact a contest in public speaking can not fail to render the individual the better able to stand squarely on his feet before an audience and present his chosen subject matter. Every profession today is calling for men who have the ability to be public leaders and a contest such as the primary oratorical aids in producing these public leaders. With seven weeks in which to prepare, it is to be hoped that at least ten contestants will enter the spring event, and the number should be much higher.

THE ALUMNI'S RETURN.

An eventful year is fast drawing to a close and commencement week will soon be here again. It has truly been an eventful year for all lines of activity have moved forward and the college proper is in a most prosperous condition. A full measure of work has been accomplished and the round of frolics and pleasures will soon be but simple memories. To the college man or woman the years spent in college may well be called the joyous springtime of their lives for at that time the world was apparently theirs for the asking and the real red blood coursed through the veins with the vigor and fire of youth. Then comes the summer and autumn of life; the time when the battle is the thickest, when discouragement and adversity must be overcome.

Every college graduate sooner or later enters into this summer and autumn of life. He enters it as a rule well prepared and in an enthusiastic manner, though the path is sometimes hard and perhaps dark. But amid these darker days come the happy memories of days gone by: the memories perhaps of those good old college days that brighten the way and lighten the load. The springtime is gone and the old grad sometimes stops amid burdens and cares and allows his fancy to carry him back to the little college on the hill and dreams of that happy past. What a happy chord these dreams strike in the soul of every Alumnus.

With the coming of commencement would it not be pleasant to return again to the old college and renew the old friendships? Would it not be pleasant to come in touch again with the college life, to become enthused with good strong college spirit? Would it not make life a little more worth living to return to the old home and receive a cordial welcome. For after all what is so pleasing as the cordial greeting of homefolk?

And every Hanover Alumnus can expect a most hearty welcome should he return for a short visit at commencement or at any other time. Hanovers latch string is always out, why not accept the invitation and come back to the old college, your home in the springtime of your life?

NEW ALBANY PRESBYTERY.

The college has had the pleasure of assisting in the entertainment of the delegates to the New Albany Presbytery and their friends, during the past week. Their visit in Hanover was a pleasure to all the college folk and certainly very beneficial to the student body. Hanover always rejoices in having such men Alumni.

Rev. Eugene Shirey, of the class of 1893, has removed from St. Paul, Minn. to Huron, S. D.

Rev. John W. Talbott, of the class of 1870, died recently at Burlingame, Kans. He was born in Cass county, Mo., and after graduation from Hanover attended Danville Seminary. He was ordained in 1878 by the Presbytery of Neosho. Most of his life was spent in the sunflower state, where he did a faithful and self-denying work in charge of smaller and weaker churches.

Capt. Charles D. Herron, of the 18th U. S. Infantry, visited his cousin Miss Harriet Harding, Saturday. He had been in Madison Friday inspecting Company F, 1st Infantry.

MORE NEW BOOKS.

Hendricks' Library Receives Additions to Equipment.

The shelves of the Hendricks Library already carry about twenty-two thousand volumes, irrespective of pamphlets and magazines, covering nearly every field of human knowledge and endeavor, and ranging in time of printing from priceless old leather bound editions of 1600 to the product of the most modern presses; but the supply of books is constantly being increased and kept up to date by additions through purchase and gift.

This week about seventy-five new volumes have been added by purchase, and in the number are many books which will be of interest to those engaged in research and special study as well as many of purely literary value.

The list given below of these new books was made out by Miss Jennie Lee, the librarian, and is printed to give an idea of the character of books being added to the library as well as for the information of all library users. The list follows:

BASE BALL GAME.

New Washington Beats Varsity Nine.

The New Washington high school nine won from Hanover in a practice game on Wood field here Thursday by a score of 6 to 3. The weather conditions were far from ideal for baseball. A cold raw wind sweeping across the soggy diamond took all the snap out of both teams and there were few attempts at plays which would make the game interesting to those on the side lines. A big delegation of rooters came with the high school team.

Crisp, of New Washington, struck out fifteen men, but allowed six hits. Twelve errors on Hanover's part allowed the visitors to score, although fewer hits were secured off Patton and Pitts. Crisp has decided to enter college this term and he will probably prove a valuable addition to the varsity pitching staff.

The line-up was:

Hanover Glee Club

Deserves Commendation

and their many, much solicited encores were well in keeping with their first appearances. When a singer like Bob Millar is added to a trio like Allison, Gilbert and Winslow the combination is hard to beat. Such was the make up of the quartet.

It is beyond a doubt that this organization is the most successful of any nature put out by the school in recent years. Although some of the best material will not be here another year prospects are very bright for as successful a season next year. The high standards of Hanover along every line are well set out by this body of young men and as means of advertising Hanover's true worth this method is beyond criticism.

The season was a success financially as well as along other lines. Credit must be given to R. S. Stitler for this. His diligent service and remarkable business acumen went well together in mapping tours, obtaining guarantees and advertising properly. M. M. Montgomery as his assistant did much good for the club in many ways.

General opinion says that there is no other man in any way as capable a leader as Professor Belcher, a talented musician and a natural born leader. He had in addition to this the admiration, respect and implicit confidence of every man on the club. Without him it is safe to say there would have been no Glee Club and the perfectness of its members individually and collectively is in a great part due to his unceasing and untiring efforts. Every one of the student body is hoping and praying that the school may another year have Prof. Belcher a member of its faculty as well as the director of its Glee Club.

Chrestomathean.

At the meeting of Chrestomathean Literary Society Friday, the program consisted of a declamation by Marlon Miller; current events, Elsie Tate; essays, Freda Bach and Katherine Rutledge. Instead of the regular debate a "literary round" was given which caused much merriment, and disturbed the surveying class in the other end of the Classic Hall. Those taking part were: Blanche Ryker, Mary Howk, Louise Stockman, Hazel Bussabarger, Helen Cain, Katherine Rutledge and Ruth Terrill.

A very pleasant time was enjoyed by a number of the fraternity men and friends at a rather informal interfraternity dance at the Sig house Saturday evening. There were eleven couples present, Miss Elanor McLeland and Miss Madeline Laddley being guests from Madison. Music for the occasion was furnished by Stillhammer, of Madison, and Professor and Mrs. Montgomery chaperoned. The night being warm, with a star-lit sky, the house was thrown open and many couples sat out occasional dances on the spacious porches. Japanese lanterns about the lawn and on the porches gave a picturesque and pleasing setting. White carnations were given as favors.

The Freshman Class hopes to make its annual excursion this year an all day trip to Fern Grove, a pleasure park above Louisville. May 11 will probably be the day.
