HONOR STUDENTS FOR FIRST TERM

Practically Ties For Leadership in Three Classes.

Hollcroft and Miss Millis Lead College.

The grades for the first term of the year were mailed out from the President's office during the holidays. It is noticeable that the difference between the fraternity and non-fraternity men is more than last year, the non-fraternity men leading. The individual honors are as follow. In the senior class Miss Hawk and Millis tie for leadership with averages of 9.5. They are in the Magna cum laude class. Almond, Britan, Hughes and Voris made Cum laude. There was also a tie in the Junior class for leadership between T. R. Hollcroft, and Miss Millis, their grades being 9.75. These two lead the College in grades and were the only students to make Summa cum laude. Farrell, George and Priest made Cum laude. Miss Schlichter, leads the Sophomore class with an average of 9.46; Blackwood, second with 9.3. Blair and Sitler are Cum laudes. Miss Mary Bocz made 9.65 and Miss Helen Cain, 9.65 in the Freshman class. The Freshmen have the most honor students as besides the two leaders there are six others who have averages above nine, all in Cum laude, Miss Palsler, Miss Campbell, Hufford, Miss McCure, Riely, and Miss Westfall. The exact standing of the entire classes have not been ascertained but the Junior class will most probably retain its lead, unless the Seniors who are close seconds beat them out. The Freshmen will probably come next with the Sophomores last.

FOOTBALL IN DANGER.

A meeting was held at Indianapolis last week of representatives of the faculties of all the institutions in the state who engage in inter-collegiate athletics for the purpose of deciding the future of football. With one or two exceptions, it was found that every one was in favor of the introduction of the rugby style of football, which is more of an open running game and which has the rough work of the present style eliminated. The smaller colleges especially were in favor of making some change. However nothing definite was decided. A committee composed of R. E. Kelly of Earlham, Prof. Stanley Coulter of Purdue, a Hanover graduate, Prof. Thomas of Wabash, Prof. R. B. Moore of Butler and Dr. Millis were appointed to come to a decision about the matter. This has been done but they have not made it public yet.

AMER. HISTORICAL SOCIETY MEETS

Convenes at Indianapolis During Holidays. Prof. Hadley and Dr. Millis Attend.

Hundreds of prominent educators, writers and students of history assembled at Indianapolis last week for the meeting of the American Historical Association with its allied Ohio Valley and Mississippi Valley Associations. To name the whole galaxy of prominent historians who were present would be impossible. Such men as Thwaites of Wisconsin, Alvord of Illinois, Jameson of the Carnegie Institute, Roland of Mississippi, and scores of others were there. Every institution of learning in the country of any prominence at all was represented. Many valuable papers and discussions were read. Professor A. M. Hadley the head of the department of History and Social Science was present. Dr. Millis was also in attendance. John H. Holliday, of the class of '64 and Vice President of the Board of Trustees was prominent in the meeting. Prof. Hadley took several of the History IV term theses up with him for inspection of the Hanover alumni and trustees in Indianapolis.

NO SPIRIT WORLD PROMISE

Senior Psychology Class Gets a Denial of Spiritualism of Prof. James. Rather Important.

In answer to an inquiry sent by a member of the senior psychology class to the head of the department of psychology at Harvard university, a denial is made of the report that Professor James, who died recently, and who was prominent in psychical research, placed a sealed letter in a safe in London, the contents of which he promised to reveal to some of his companions after death. Dr. Edwin B. Holt, acting director of the Harvard psychological laboratory, says Professor James made no promise to attempt to communicate with living persons after his death, adding that mediums who have taken advantage of such a report were misrepresenting the facts.

Professor James, who was the author of the psychological texts used in American colleges, was regarded as one of the foremost investigators of the day. During his life he probed spiritualism, clairvoyance, Christian Science and other cults. The statement that he would communicate the contents of a sealed letter was widely circulated. The question of its authenticity was raised in a class discussion and it was decided to write to Harvard.

THE ANNUAL JUNIOR EXHIBITION HELD

Honor Students Participate. Orchestra Makes Its Initial Appearance.

The exhibition of the Junior class, in which the honor students are privileged to participate was held at the Assembly Hall the evening of December 19. The original intention was to hold it on Tuesday but as a great many of the students, thru with their exams would leave before then the time was moved up a day. The contest was on the whole very good, considering the short time in which the speakers had to prepare. Those who were to participate were not notified until about two weeks before the event and their work was necessarily hurried and their elocution was faulty. Music for the occasion was furnished by the orchestra which made its initial appearance a good one. The program was as follows:

Invocation, Dr. J. S. Hawk.
Music, Orchestra.
Miss Millis, Salutatorian, "The Right of the Child".
Andrew Farrell, "Some Weaknesses of Liberal Education".
H. J. Grossman, "The Power of Example".
Music, Orchestra.
Miss Branham, "The Mission of Music".
Miss Wilson, "Drama of Today".
T. R. Hollcroft, "Our Ideals".
Music, Orchestra.

CAPTAIN AND MANAGERS OF FOOTBALL ELECTED

G. E. McLaughlin as Captain for Next Year.
T. W. Blair is Manager, Ramsay His Asst.,
Teepie. Asst. Base Ball Manager.

At the meeting of the Athletic Association before vacation, G. E. McLaughlin of "Special student" class, of Seymour, Ind., was elected captain of the foot ball team for next year upon the nomination of the "H" men. H. E. Mann of Indianapolis was the other candidate. McLaughlin was the full back this Fall and will undoubtedly make an efficient leader.

T. W. Blair of Hammond, Ind., a Sophomore, was elected manager for next year, and A. P. Ramsay of the Freshman class of Vincennes his assistant. O. W. Teepie a Freshman of Charlestown was elected Assistant manager of base ball. The Association considered withdrawing from the I. C. A. L. but took no definite action. Reports were heard from the football manager and the Treasurer. A considerable profit was made on football.

PREPARING FOR THE FOREIGN FIELD.

Seven More Students Decide to Go. Four Already Preparing. Schwartz Did Good Work.

The personal work of P. A. Schwartz, traveling secretary of the Students Volunteer Movement among the student body has resulted in seven persons deciding to enter the foreign mission work on completion of their college courses. These are A. E. Sellers '15, of Scottsburg, L. E. Winslow, '13, Fairmount, J. B. Allison, '12, and C. E. Drew, '12, Gardner, Ill. U. Averitt '15, Bedford, Ky.; Howard Gordon, '11, Lexington, and Miss Mary Chapman, '12 Madison, Ind. Besides these there are four others who are preparing to enter the foreign field, K. K. Thompson, H. E. Vancil, Miss Dorothy Jones and Miss Bernice Archer.

Hanover has sent about 35 people into the foreign field. It speaks well for the institution that there is nearly a third of this number preparing to go out on completion of their College work.

FIRST BASKET BALL GAME

Varsity, 22 - Alumni, 17. Some of the Old Stars Preform.

The basket ball team played its first game of the season, Friday night December 17, before vacation, against a so called alumni team, which they finally beat by a score of 22 to 17. Coach Weber and Fatty Mann went to the assistance of the graduates in order to make out the team. In fact the Coach was the whole show himself. He repeatedly had trouble with his shoe. This was very fortunate as whenever the varsity had the ball in scoring distance, off would come that shoe. After the game Weber received a big donation of strings.

The varsity did not get its stride until the second half. It will be faster and will probably work better together than last year's stellar quintette, but the individual playing will not be so good. An undecidable contest between the Slims and the Shorts took place before the big game to the amusement and edification of the spectators. Dr. P. Dippy Dowell very efficiently acted as the master of ceremonies. The line up of the Varsity Alumni game follows:

Varsity, 22	Alumni, 17
Voris	Mann '12
Ramsay	Weber '32
Russell	Fisher '08
Iddings	Miles '10
Hamar	Thompson '10

H. Voris - Umpire.

Fraternity Politics.

There is a more or less meritorious apothegm, culled from the pages of almanac literature, to the effect that an individual making his residence in a silician structure should be particularly careful to avoid hurling destructive projectiles. Another equally veracious axiom, however, carries the advice that experience is the best teacher and although one cannot be advanced to the entire exclusion of the other, a middle ground may be discovered which may permit of a reasonably safe journey.

A discussion of an existing condition may be either commendatory or censorious; we hope that this may be both for, while fraternity politics are eminently bad in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, the last case may prove desirable enough to almost recompense for the mistakes that were ninety and nine. A definition of the compound term "fraternity politics" is almost impossible; viewed from its almost habitual aspect, it is of such a nature that mere words find difficulty in expressing its capacity for harm, its ability for evil in the institution in which it may be fostered.

If the truth of the observation—"a burned child fears the fire" is unquestioned, Hanover College should shun fraternity politics with a bitterness that would soon leave the political ideas and practices struggling and dying upon barren ground. Unfortunately, however, the changing college population ushers in its annual crowd of strangers, unfamiliar with the institutional traditions, not recognizing the fact that history repeats itself and accordingly taking little or no cognizance of that which will return with a revival of former conditions.

One of the features which was in a large measure responsible for the downfall of many Hanover enterprises—a former college paper, strong literary societies and many such—was fraternity politics and the college man who in Hanover today plans for personal advancement or fraternity aggrandizement at the expense of the best interests of the organizations which he seeks to control, is doing the old institution an incalculable harm from which she will suffer long after her despoiler has ceased to tread her stately halls. The elevation of an individual to positions of College prominence through personal worth is a splendid testimony of ability and establishes a record to which the student may point with pride in after years. But the equal elevation of a member of the college body because he happens to control four more votes than his abler opponent is a most despicable testimony to the great weaknesses of student control of our institutional "side shows", as ex-President Wilson of Princeton chooses to style them.

It is a great temptation undoubtedly to establish a "corner" upon college elective offices, to build up a great wealth of spiking material by thrusting your own men forward, to conspire with another organization, divide the plums that you pick from the tree, while your opponents stand below with mouth agape to await the fall of the ripened fruit, and then like little Jack Horner, of Mother Goose fame, pat yourself upon the back, crying meanwhile for the world to notice "what a big boy am I." Many college politicians either will not or cannot see far enough into the future to realize the evil results which will be attendant upon their present plans of action. If many of them could be shown the evil effects which fraternity control of organizations will have upon the whole college, only the most unprincipled would continue in such a course. They cannot, unfortunately, see very far beyond the next spiking season and their views of even that limited scope are directed along a purely personal and selfish line. They experience temporary pride and pleasure but the old college must remain to experience the evils that will grow and increase as the days go by. An athletic association, a literary society, a dramatic club, a press club or any other college organization that is dominated or controlled by fraternity politics is a weak organization and sooner or later will come the crash and the overthrow—the inevitable result of fraternity control. But there are some would-be Napoleonic characters who care more for the gratification of their own desires than for their college's best interests and even dream of crying "apres moi, le deluge" in a truly Bonapartian manner. They like to think of the destruction they are planning and some even go so far as to call themselves—"Hanover's Bosses" and attempt to act the part. So much for the ninety and nine.

Occasionally a fraternity endeavors through purely individual and internal efforts to so perfect and train its men that they will be the logical leaders and the invariable "best men for the positions". When such conditions exist, it matters not if every elective office in a college is held by members of one organization to the exclusion of others. Under such conditions, fraternity lines are forgotten, Greek meets Greek on an equal footing and if necessary, they will each bow willingly upon the recognition of a superior ability. But why burst rudely into the realm of More or of Bellamy; it would be wiser to return to Dante!

It must be said, however, that such a condition may, nay even has, existed and that it typifies the height of fraternity development. The desire for legitimate recognition of real ability is deserving of nothing but the highest praise, and when a fraternity gains prominence through the individuality and strength of its members only, it has reached the climax of organizational growth. Each step in that Hanover's fraternities may come under the ninety nine percent; they may come under the lonesome one. We believe, however, that a calm and quiet survey of the situation by those who have been in error, if any such there be, will induce them to forget personal or fraternity elevation in the interests of the college for we are sure that, with James Russell Lowell, they would much prefer to be ranked with the men who are willing to sink half their present reputes for the freedom to think; and once having thought, be their cause strong or weak, will sink the other half for the freedom to speak.

Earlham Wants a Debate.

A letter has been received from H. L. Morris, captain of the Earlham debating team, wanting to arrange a debate with Hanover. Earlham debates Albion College in February and wants to debate the same question and side against Hanover in March. They wish to have the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved, That the Commission form of government for municipalities is desirable". This would be alright if the debate with Moores Hill could be arranged so that Hanover could have the negative side of that question. Nothing definite has been done yet with reference to the Moores Hill debate. Committees have been appointed from Union and Philadelpia societies but they have not as yet made any definite action.

Mail Service Cut Down.

Two Trips Each Way Daily.

The mail service between Hanover and Madison has been cut down one trip. Hereafter the mail will come out at eight and go in at ten-thirty in the morning and will go in at three forty-five and come out at eight-thirty in the evening. This does away with one of Peak's round trips. The mail will be taken back in the morning by the Star route man, who has been bringing it out.

Miss McLelland Has Accident.

A peculiar accident happened to Miss Margaret McLelland, '08, who is teaching at Lawrenceburg H. S. this year and who was visiting her parents in Hanover Xmas. While standing in the middle of a room her knee gave way, the bone snapping out of place and back again, and she fell to the floor. She has never had any trouble with the limb previously. She is confined to bed as a result.

Dr. Shelby Marries in China.

Dr. W. D. Shelby graduate of the class of '95. donor of the Shelby medal, and one of Hanover's most successful medical missionaries married Miss Elizabeth Carter of Virginia in Canton China. Miss Carter is also a medical missionary. Dr. Shelby served as a surgeon in the Spanish American War, practicing later in Cuba, from where he went to Japan. From Japan he went to Canton, China where it is his intention to remain indefinitely as a general practitioner.

Union Lit Elects Officers.

At the last meeting of Union Literary Society the officers for the term were elected as follows:— Andrew Farrell, President; F. S. Montgomery, Vice-President; P. F. Dowell, Censor. W. E. Nichols, Secretary; T. W. Blair, Treasurer; R. W. Hamar, First Consul; W. E. Peters, Second Consul; R. P. Kehoe, third Consul; R. S. Sittler, door-keeper and O. W. Teeple, Assistant door keeper. The society is planning to hold a moot court during the coming term.

Dr. Patterson Retires.

James K. Patterson, Hanover, '56, A. M. and Ph. D. and a corresponding member of the Royal Geographical Society of London, has resigned the presidency of Kentucky State University. Under his leadership that institution has grown from the small State College to one of the leading Southern institutions. Dr. Patterson is ranked as one of the leading educators of the day. His old age is the reason for his voluntary retirement.

Some Calendars Left.

There are a few of the athletic association calendars unsold which the committee would like to dispose of very much. They are on sale at either Hill's or Lee's. If you know of anyone who will be going to College next year it would be a good thing to send one of these to them. They are a very effective argument for Hanover. A slight profit will be made for the association on the enterprise.

C. R. Ryker a graduate of the College in '93 is railroad commissioner in Kansas, and has become prominent thru the good work he has done there during the last two years. Ryker is in lumber business in Hutchinson.

T. H. Montgomery, '09, who is in Indiana Law School at Indianapolis, visited at the Sig house Friday.

Dr. Millis was one of the speakers at the banquet of Delta Tau Delta at Indianapolis Dec. 23 in honor of Champ Clark.

Mrs. Amelia Morse Dies.

Mrs. Amelia Morse, wife of the late Professor F. L. Morse, died suddenly, after a very brief illness, at six o'clock Saturday morning December 31st at her home in Madison. She was for many years a resident of Hanover, where she was identified prominently with the social, religious and educational interests of the village, while her late husband was a member of the faculty for twenty-six years as a professor of mathematics. All of her six children are Hanover graduates. A son, Rev. Dr. Charles E. Morse, recently deceased, was a distinguished minister of the Presbyterian church. Surviving members of the family are two sons—Horace B. Morse and Frank Morse prominent Philadelphia merchants, and three daughters—Mrs. Charles E. Huffer, of Albion, Michigan; Miss Gertrude Morse, M. D., and Miss Effie Morse, the latter a teacher of mathematics in the Madison high school. Mrs. Morse was a lifelong member of the Presbyterian church.

The funeral took place on Monday afternoon, under the supervision of Rev. Frank C. Hood, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. J. B. Garritt, D. D. A short service was held in Madison and a more extended one in the church at Hanover. The burial took place in the cemetery at Hanover.

Prof. Lowes, for many years English professor in Hanover, visited relatives in Madison last week.

Prof. Souter spent the vacation in Astatula, Florida.

Misses Margaret and Mary Howk visited in Jeffersonville last week.

The deposits in the new Hanover Deposit Bank run something over $5000 now.

The Phi Gams expect to occupy their house in the near future.

E. M. Harrison, ex-'11, was a visitor at the Sigma Chi house during vacation.

F. R. Charleton, '92, visited his relatives last week. Charleton, who is a specialist in Indianapolis, and who is one of the prominent professors in the Indiana Medical College, has just returned from a three months' trip in Europe.

E. E. Powell, '83 of Madison, has recently returned from Europe.

HANOVER AT STATE TEACHERS ASSOCIATION.

At the meeting of the State Teachers Association at Indianapolis before Christmas Prof. Boyd, of the Mathematics Department who is on a leave of absence studying at Cornell, was elected President of the Mathematical Section of the Association for the coming year. Dr. Millis made a report before the Association on teacher's pensions and is on the legislative committee, which looks after the interests of the teachers in the State legislature. The teacher's pension legislation which they are trying to get thru is of importance.

TRIANGLE SUBSCRIPTION PRICE INCREASES.

After Feb. 15 Delinquents Will Owe $2 Instead
Of $1.50.

Inasmuch as the majority of the subscribers to the Triangle are not paying up, the business department has decided to increase the subscription price a third to those who do not pay before February 15.

The price of $1.50 a year is very reasonable. The paper has to run on a very close margin. We have to run in competition with three daily and four weekly Madison papers for advertisement. We do not have a very large alumni list. Consequently we need the money. This gives you a month and a half in which to pay up. After that it will be $2.00 for those who have been getting the paper all year. All back subscriptions will also increase to that on that date. This is the only fair thing that can be done. We need the money. You owe it. Therefore you ought to pay. And it will be to your interest to settle before the 15th.
