Name: Hannah Leffew

Class year: 2023

Connection to the College (student? faculty? alum? friend of the College?): student

Describe your day on May 15, 2021.

Tell us whatever you'd like at whatever length you'd like. We think future students will especially appreciate hearing about concrete details -- What can you see and hear from where you are right now? What did you do for fun today? Did you cook or eat anything special? Did you work or do chores? Who did you spend time with? What did you learn?

My friend and I went out looking for salamanders and frogs for his herpetology class. Later in the day we hung out with a small group of people in a room in Garritt Street Apartments.

I consent to my submissions for the "One Day in May" project being made available to library users, and I grant Hanover College a nonexclusive, perpetual, royalty free license to use, duplicate and distribute them.

What do you think you'll remember most about surviving the pandemic?

Tell us what whatever you'd like at whatever length you'd like. We think future students will especially appreciate memories that help them picture your life and relationships -- Have you taken up any new leisure activities in the last year, or have you changed how you eat, or cook? If you're on campus, what was it like in classrooms or dining spaces or locker rooms or offices? Have you been able to stay in touch with family or friends (including classmates and other Hanoverians)? How? What have you missed the most in the past year?

Time seems to have moved super fast since the start of the pandemic, but the moments went slow. The feeling is hard to describe. It's been harder to meet and form connections with new people with everyone being masked and socially distant. Additionally, there are far fewer events to meet people at. With less to do outside of classwork, I've felt more burnt out.
