Indianapolis Tracksters Score Win Over Red and Blue Thinclads

Pole Vault Decides Meet

In the first inter-collegiate track meet of the season, N. A. G. U. triumphed over the local track team, on Wood's Field Saturday afternoon, May 9, by a score of 62 to 55. A steady drizzle of rain fell during the whole meet, handicapping both teams, and the soggy condition of the field prevented any record breaking feats.

Hanover proved superior in the dashes and runs, while N. A. G. U. accounted for their victory by taking most of the field events. Hough and Hetherington easily won the dashes, while McKeand had little trouble in winning both the mile and the half mile events.

Preiss was high point man for the visitors with 14 points, including two firsts, a second and two thirds, while Mitchell was next for Hanover with 13 points. Three Hanover men earned letters in this first meet of the season. They were Mitchell, 13 points; Hough 11 points; and McKeand, 10 points. Hetherington came within one point of a letter by taking one first place and two thirds.

Following is a summary of the events. Next Saturday, the Hanover thinclads will go to Richmond to participate in the state meet.

DRAMATIC CLUB

PRESENTS PLAYS

The Dramatic Club presented two plays, "Suppressed Desires" and "Hearts To Mend", at the gymnasium. Tuesday night, May 5. The plays were exceptionally good and the casts well chosen. The college Glee Club entertained with four numbers between plays. "Hearts To Mend" was especially artistic. Mary Margaret Johnson took the part of Pierrot; Martha Wilbur, the part of Pierrette; and Elizabeth Post, that of the Tinker Man. The acting was very good. Miss Esther Power coached the play.

The audience was kept in constant laughter by "Suppressed Desires", a comedy on psycho analysis. Stephen Brewster, the husband, was played by Jack Williams; Mary Elizabeth Reap played the part of the wife; and Edith Moon, that of Mabel, her sister. It was presented in a very clever and humorous manner.

The proceeds from the plays are to be used in paying for the new curtain and scenery, which the club purchased recently.

Hanover Gives

May Day Fete

Ugh! Cold winds, shadows, the sun shining brightly at intervals, but without its usual warmth. Six-thirty a. m. and the bell tolling forth its message. "Ding, dong, May Day Celebration will be held today, Ding, dong!"

With much shivering, cheese-cloth costumes were deprecatingly donned, in readiness for the bugler's call at ten o'clock. The townsfolk and visitors didn't know that the weatherman was the cause of the later start this year and they were out in full force before nine o'clock, interested and expectant.

Thronged of flower girls, peasants, lords and ladies, Shakespearean characters, Grecian maidens, brownies, nymphs, balloon vendors, and gypsies, all in one excited congregation, calling shrilly for last minute accessories, were in possession of statly Classic Hall.

At last the clarion tones of the bugler! The court was in readiness, a ripple of whispering.—"Who'll be the Queen this year?" To the strains of the courtiers marched slowly across the grounds, and then the Queen, "Oh! Betty Wells!" Yes, in her white robe with her fair hair shining in the sunlight, Miss Elizabeth Wells walked with queenly dignity to the throne, where she was crowned by the Lord Chamberlain, Mr. Munzenmayer.

The freshmen impatiently lined up on the steps of Classic Hall awaiting the anticipated call for their stunt. At last it came. Spring-time "Proserpina" led "Ceres" who was followed by her Grecian maidens. Beauty and grace were personified in the dances of "Proserpina" and her flower maidens. One could easily feel sympathetically chilly with the North Wind and the snow fairies, and their leader, Winter.

The sophomores quickly transformed the grounds from the aesthetic setting of springtime to that of an old country fair. Vendors of balloons, confections, scarfs, etc., put up their stalls and joined the patty-cake man in raucous calling. Peasants, gayly attired, swarmed through the gates, followed by the stately aristocrats.

Herrin Strikes Out Six

Hanover Men

Indiana Central College piled up her fourth straight victory of the season at the expense of Hanover, Friday, May 8, at Indianapolis, by a score of 5-4.

As the score would indicate, the game was hard fought and close, and though, the up-state nine made all their runs in the first four frames, Hanover came within an ace of evening the score in the fifth and sixth innings. In the last three rounds no scoring was done by either team.

This defeat marked the fifth consecutive loss for the Hilltoppers who, although playing close games, seem to lack the necessary punch to score a win, despite the excellent pitching of Rumsey, Hanover's portside star, who was credited with nine strikeouts against Indiana Central. He allowed seven hits, while Herrin, hurling for Central also allowed seven bingles. He fanned six Hanover batsmen.

Herrin and Harvey led the hitting for the opponents with a triple and a double consecutively, while Donahue smashed out two hits for Hanover. The fielding was rather erratic, each team making four misplays. Score: Hanover 0 0 0 1 3 0 0 0 4-7-4. Ind. Central 2 1 0 2 0 0 0 0 x 5-7-4. Batteries—Rumsey and Donahue; Herrin and Albright.

ONE YEAR OR MORE?

So many students come to college for a year and then drop out for a year or two or perhaps altogether. Some students come only for a term of one year and a term of another. Still other attend only the summer terms. Any student who comes under any of these classifications can not possibly realize the benefits of Hanover that four-year students do.

It takes the greater part of a year to get acclimated to college—study, activities, and the more mature channels of thought. There are more things to interest the student, and there is more real spirit to induce him to return after a year or two at college than at the beginning. The period of attending college is one of mental growth and development, and it stands to reason that this growth should not be halted or interrupted. Students who only gather a bit now and then cannot develop into the clear-sighted, fair-minded men and women that they should. After all, four years is comparatively short time to polish one's cultural being and train one's mind for life's work and enjoyment.

Going to college is like eating three meals a day. If you omit parts of either, there will be a reaction that will show you to be physically or mentally undermined.

If you wish Hanover to bestow on you all the treasures and advantages she has, give her the allotted time to complete her work.

College. During the past few weeks, the Dramatic Club of Hanover College has fixed up the stage of the gymnasium. They have bought a new curtain and have made five new sets of scenery. Indeed, on Tuesday night, last, when the students and faculty went to the gym to attend the plays which were to be given, they could hardly suppress their exclamations. The lights were turned out and new footlights shed a clear luster over the beautiful crimson curtain. With an overture of "Il Trovatore" played on a new piano, it was as if one were entering a fine theater in one of our large cities. Every one there was proud of our gymnasium and of the Dramatic Club.

This has brought a new problem to every student in Hanover. The gym, as stated above, is in wonderful condition for dramatic work, and let's all keep it so!

Every time anything is repaired in Hanover, some one with a child-like mind, tears it or marks it up. If YOU are the one who has been doing this, please stop it. If you are one of those people who are writing his name on the wall or carving it on the desks or the woodwork, please remember that "Fools' names like tools' faces are always seen in public places", and that nearly everyone who reads these names regards them as such.

Hanover is striving for better buildings and better equipment but there is no use to repair our buildings as long as there are persons in Hanover who are always working for the destruction of property.

This is a challenge to every true man and woman in Hanover College. Let's keep our college buildings free from pencil markings and abuse of all kinds. If you should see some one abusing a little child or helpless person, you would jump on him and abuse him awhile. That is, you would if you had real American blood coursing through your veins. A building is a helpless thing, but our college buildings are living beings in our hearts, or should be. So let's protect them as we would a child.

Remember this is a personal problem and everyone must do his or her part to SAVE OUR BUILDINGS.

French Fishermen Sail With Blessing of Church

Le Havre.—Every year, before the Havre fishermen sail off in their boats to the distant Newfoundland banks, they gather together at Havre to celebrate the feast of their patron saint, St. Peter. This year the presence of the archbishop of Rouen lent unusual interest to the ceremony.

The whole town turned out, and the church of St. Etienne was covered with flags and bunting and glittered with lights. The sailors filed reverently up the aisles, accompanied by their women folk, and the whole congregation, in picturesque Normandy attire, sang hymns and prayed for those who go down to the sea in ships.

As part of the ceremony, a bluff old master seaman, who had weathered many a storm, came to the rail of the choir and made an address in the rough, poetic language of the seafarers, to which the archbishop replied.

All the fishing fleet in the docks was gay with flags, their crews gathered together for the blessing of the ships by the archbishop. After the religious ceremony, bands played the "Marseillaise," the sailors cheered and the 1925 Newfoundland banks fishing season was declared open.

who drove up in Dr. Young's buggy. The peasants danced, and a gypsy sang and gayly danced to the tune of her tambourine. The aristocratic people gave a Minuet while the peasants looked on and showered them with confetti. There was no lack of color or hilarity in this excellent reproduction of an old fashioned fair.

The Junior class successfully tried something which had never been attempted before,—an interpretation of 'Pyramis and Thisbe' in her flowing robes and 'pale-pink' voice. The lion growled ferociously and the horned moon shone brightly. The wall's progress was somewhat impeded by the narrow confines of her box. The prologue spoke well, and never was a stunt funnier or more appreciated.

The seniors presented a beautiful story, in dance form, of the beginning of Hanover. Fairies appeared in search of 'Pan' whose flute-like notes had called them. Not finding him, they left to search in other directions. One, however, was attracted by the flowers and was left alone. The brownies came along, full of mischief and fun, and decided to make her their queen, Hanover.

The water nymphs [graciousness and charm] and the wood nymphs [friendliness and cheer] danced gracefully and grouped around 'Hanover' and then came the students of today. The last pose—all with arms outstretched toward 'Hanover', who pointed upward was held while the first verse of the college song was sung, followed by 'Taps'.

The special dance this year was exceptionally beautiful. Fourteen Grecian maidens in white, flowing robes were lovely in their graceful movements and poses. The Maypole dance was also different. Rainbow ribbons and colored dresses made it a pretty sight and the weaving went well.

Despite the cold weather, the May Day exercises were even more beautiful than last year, and showed that in the busy rush of college life, much thought and time had been devoted to the preparation.

Mrs. LaGrange was in Franklin, Thursday, May 8.

Miss Jean Anderson went to Indianapolis over the week-end of May 1 to visit her father.

High Spots In The History Of Hanover College

THE Y. M. C. A.

Hanover College people have always taken considerable pride in the fact that the student department of the Young Men's Christian Association originated in Hanover College, and that the first building erected for the use of such an association was erected by Hanover students in 1883 and is still used by the Christian Associations of the College. The writer has thus far been unable to a certain the exact date of organization. But many years prior to the student days of Dr. Young, possibly as early as the 50's, there was a vigorous organization on the campus known as the Society of Religious Inquiry. After the city Young Men's Christian Association movement was brought from England to America, it was decided by the members of the Society of Religious Inquiry to amend their constitution by changing the name of their society to "The Hanover College Young Men's Christian Association." The story goes that otherwise the organization was unchanged. The officers continued with the same titles and functions. During the 70's Luther D. Wishard of Indianapolis was a student here for three years. He was converted in a Y. M. C. A. meeting. He transferred to Princeton for his senior year, carrying with him his newborn enthusiasm. There he conceived the plan of making the student association movement universal. After his graduation he set out upon a many years' program of organization and development of association work that resulted in planting the college Y. M. C. A. in nearly every institution of higher education in the world. This from the "Society of Religious Inquiry" of Hanover College has developed the mighty student association movement that is today one of the most powerful factors in all the earth in behalf of righteousness in leadership.

Dr. Young relates that the present Y. M. C. A. building was conceived and erected by a group of students under the leadership of Dr. Hugh Gilchrist, Dr. Samuel A. Moffet, Dr. William A. Baird, Dr. W. B. Riley, and others. Dr. Gilchrist was the architect and the work seems to have been done by student labor under his supervision. The full list of contributors of labor and money is not available but it is interesting to know that the men most prominent in the erection of this historic building have become prominent and many have attained to very great distinction. Doctors Moffet and Baird have headed up the missionary labors in Korea. Of them it was said by a speaker in Philadelphia not long ago, "the story of the rise of Democracy in the Orient is told it will turn about the work of Moffet and Baird in Korea."

Dr. W. B. Riley is the minister to the largest Baptist congregation in Minneapolis and is the leader of the Fundamental Movement in his denomination.

Dr. Gilchrist is known all through the western states for his Bible School work in California.

Charles McCaslin, David Blythe, Tom and George Giboney are also widely and well known.

The initiative which prompted this small labor of love on the part of these men in their college days has been manifest throughout their many years of distinguished service since graduation.

Football

Professor Culbertson affects to be too modest to tell the story of the beginning of football in Indiana. There are several stories in print in which different institutions claim the honor of having introduced the royal game into the Hoosier state. The fact seems to be that the Young Men's Christian Association should have that honor. In 1886 the Indianapolis Association invited five colleges to organize teams and plays a schedule on Indianapolis grounds. This invitation was accepted by Hanover, Wabash, Butler, DePauw, and Indiana University. The full schedule was played that year and the championship won by Hanover.

The Hanover team practiced on the campus back of Science Hall. The lineup as remembered by Professor Culbertson was as follows:

Fullback Breckenridge, of Texas. Halbacks James McCormick, of Louisville.

Dwight Harrison, of Ohio.

Quarterback

Center Glenn Culbertson, our honored vice-president and professor of Geology.

Guards John Crowe and James Todd of Chicago.

Tackles Allen Dawson, Sam Lowe.

Ends Hal T. Johnson and

This first Hanover football team has given good account of itself since the championship season of 1886. Breckenridge has been dead many years. McCormick became a good lawyer. Harrison became conspicuous in investment circles. Crowe was many years a member of the faculty of Chicago University. James Todd is a prominent lawyer and business man of Chicago. Allen Dawson was editor of the New York TRIBUNE at the time of his death a few months ago. H. C. Johnson was president of a prominent bank in Seymour at the time of his death.

It would be an interesting event for the athletic management to have the living members of this first football team tack at an athletic dinner in the near future.

Hollywood

Via Hanover

While painted lips, rouged cheeks, and "Stacombed" hair have always been a familiar sight on the campus, had anyone predicted that Hanover would become a training school for Hollywood, the dignified professors and the founders of our institution of learning would have thrown up their hands in holy horror.

The author of this article as yet does not make any such prediction, but it is not in the least impossible. Already, Hanover is turning out movie stars. Mary Kampe, ex-26, and Louis Bumen, '27, are assuming the chief roles in the latest cinema production entitled, "Madison's Hero".

This picture is almost sure to become one of the biggest hits of the season, and should be deserving of all our praise, since the scene in our neighboring town and the hero and heroine are Hanover's own.

Upon his first appearance for action, our hero's make-up caused one of Madison's prominent business men to remark, "That's one of those Hanover fellows they always dress funny". Later this same man was heard to praise our hero upon his likeness to Rudolph Valentino.

Although no custard pies are thrown in the picture, it is not devoid of excitement. Automobile wrecks, and flying leaps across wide streams of water create suspension and awe in the minds of the on-lookers. And our hero is once thrown out of the house, where he lands in a heap on the grassy lawn, which he does with all the grace and ease of an experienced star.

While we recognize the honor which will befall Hanover upon turning out such accomplished screen stars, we would hardly wish to see the movies monopolize the professional training of the Hanover students. Unless some precaution is taken the school teaching profession and the ministry, formerly supplied by Hanover talent, may suffer a rapid decline as a result of the latest possibilities of Hanover College.

"Y" NEWS

The Y. M. C. A. Cabinet on Thursday night, April 30, opened their spring membership drive, and on May 7 conducted chapel. At this service, Jack Williams, chairman of the deputation department, gave a splendid talk on "Mother." Many said it was the finest talk ever given in Dornell Chapel.

On Thursday night, May 7, the Y. M. held its regular recognition service and fourteen men took the vows in the meeting. At the close of the meeting, recognition cards were presented to the members.
