

DR. WILSON SPEAKS TO STUDENT BODY IN MON. CHAPEL

"FOR WHAT IS YOUR LIFE" IS TEXT

"For what is your life? It is even as a vapor that appeareth for a little time and then vanishes away," was the text used by Dr. H. C. Wilson in chapel Monday morning, October 10. Dr. Wilson is pastor of the Warren Memorial Presbyterian Church in Louisville.

"In our youth, life looks long," stated Dr. Wilson, "but, by the time we have reached maturity, we realize that it is really very brief." Life grows rapidly; therefore we must make everything we put into it something of good account.

Dr. Wilson related a most interesting fact concerning Dr. Howard Kelly. This eminent specialist wears upon his coat lapel a button with a tiny interrogation point upon it. Its purpose? He wishes people, seeing it, to ask him about it; so that he, in turn, may ask them, "What is your life?" Another interesting fact concerning Dr. Kelly is that he gets his recreation by a change of activity. "Life," says Dr. Wilson, "is just long enough to get all the things done God wants us to—if we are busy."

The world has a queer way of impressing itself and making people follow it, but the men and women who are preferred are the ones who have met, and answered successfully, the question of what to do with their lives said Dr. Wilson.

It has been said that there are three types of students in Oxford (but the same thing will apply at any college); those who are there because they are sent, those there for a good time, and those who rule their country.

Dr. Wilson then, using the words of Paul, pleads, "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercy of God, that you present yourselves to God acceptably."

"Let us present ourselves as a vapor that passes, if we must, but a vapor in which we have only perfect satisfaction—nothing to regret."

Varsity 'H' Club To Sponsor Dance

McNULTY APPOINTS NO COMMITTEES

It is rumored that the Varsity H Club are giving the best little dance, according to them, that was ever put on. It will be held Saturday, October 22, from 8:00 to 12:00, as part of the annual homecoming celebration. Lou Perry orchestra will furnish the music. Admission will be seventy-five cents per couple.

"No committees are required for this dance except a floor committee composed of Frank Kazavich, John Gwin, Charles Earnshaw, and Daniel McNulty. We have also the best little ticket-taker that ever took tickets. All are urged to come if only to see him take tickets," says McNulty.

Any money made from this dance will be used as part of the fund for the Track and Field meet next spring.

Of course the track and field meet do not altogether depend upon the dance.

Phi Mu's Initiative

Rho chapter of Phi Mu held its fall initiation service Saturday morning, October 8, at ten-thirty. The ceremony was held in Phi Mu Chapter Hall. Elizabeth Calhoun, Jane Burton, and Louise Pavey are the new initiates. These new activities were given Phi Mu courage of Enchantress carnations.

Margaret Ricketts, an alumna from Rising Sun, and Mary Frances Rubey of Louisville were guests over the week-end and attended the initiation.

HANOVER STUDENTS PRESENT PAGEANT

FIFTY STUDENTS TAKE PART

The Women's Synodical Society for Missions of the Synod of Indiana presented a pageant in Classic Hall, Wednesday night, October 12. The title of the pageant was "America's Unfinished Battles," written by Frederick Eastman of the University of Chicago. It was directed by Mr. and Mrs. Norman Green of Indianapolis, and Mrs. Albert G. Parker. Professor W. Maxwell Poland and the Chapel Choir furnished the music.

The Women's Synodical Society is a state organization of Women's Missionary Societies. They held their annual meeting at the First Presbyterian Church of Madison, October 11, 12, 13. Since this was the Golden Jubilee of the founding of the society, a special program was sponsored.

The cast of the pageant contain a number of students from the college, as many of them members of the Presbyterian Church as was possible, representing various sections of the state.

Mrs. W. H. Adams, presiding officer, opened the service with a hymn. The scripture from Hebrews was read by Dr. Albert G. Parker, followed with prayer by Reverend D. C. Truesdale.

The pageant was a story of the conflicts of the past compared with those of the present. The three main characters were America, Service, and Patriotism. America, representing our nation, desired to know of Service and Patriotism the answer to her question, "What can I do that will best uphold my present-day standing with the other nations of the world?"

Patriotism, in attempting to convince America that her answer was right, brought in the golden memories of the past: the Pilgrims, pioneers, men of 1776, 1812, 1856, the new territories and states, islands of the sea, freed slaves, and lastly, the business men.

Service, in replying to the same question, attempted to show the poverty, sufferings, and degradation of the people, such as the immigrants, negroes, mountaineers, Spanish speaking people, lumberjacks, Indians, Alaskans, and finally the twenty-seven million children of the United States, who have been deprived of any spiritual education. America accepted Service's answer as being correct. All those evils shake the foundation of our country.

Fight not the battles of the past, but the battles of today and tomorrow; follow the ideal of Service; help others; help America to aid her poor and down-trodden people. These are the lessons taught by "America's Unfinished Battles."

Again in Line-up

JOE MAZIEKAS

Maziekas, the Panthers half-back, was the only man to score against the DePaw Tigers. He scored from the twenty yard line on a quick opening play. His interference on this particular play was run by Jacobs.

This was the first game of the year for Maziekas owing to an injured knee. He is a junior and a veteran from last year's back field.

FAULDS ELECTED TO STATE OFFICE

SECRETARY OF STATE STUDENT EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

William Faulds was elected Secretary of the State Student Executive Committee of the Indiana Student Officers' Training Association at the annual fall conference last Saturday, Oct. 8. His election brings an honor to Hanover, since representative of all the institutions of higher education in the state were represented at the meeting. The duties of the office are extensive, as they include the handling of all the correspondence of the organization. The newly elected President of the Association is Joseph Eichhorn, President of the Indiana University Y. M. C. A.

Faulds is a member of Beta Theta Pi, President of the local Y. M. C. A., Editor of this year's Revonah, President of the German Club, a member of the junior class. He was President of his sophomore class and Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. last year.

Earlham Students Hold Annual Trip

CHOOSE HANOVER GAME FOR OUTING

Approximately two hundred Earlham students will witness the Homecoming football game on the 22nd of October, between the Quakers and the Panthers, according to letters received by Dr. Parker and Coach Van Liew.

Each year the Earlham students go on an excursion somewhat similar to Hanover All College Boat Ride, and this year they have chosen to follow their team here. Reservations for them have been made at City Inn. Besides attending the game they will make a tour of the historical and scenic spots in and around Madison.

According to Coach Van Liew they will receive reduced rates on tickets for the game if they attend in a body.

Trustees Nominated

At the recent meeting of the Synod of Indiana four men were nominated for trustees of Hanover College. Those nominated were: Clyde Ryans and Frank E. Ball both of Muncie, Richard J. Evans of Wabash and J. Barrett Moxley of Indianapolis. At the next meeting of the Board of Trustees of Hanover two of these men will be elected to the Board.

The number of members on the Board of Trustees may vary but the limit is thirty-six. At the present time there are twenty-four.

MARION HUTCHISON TALKS TO STUDENTS

WAS AN UNEXPECTED VISITOR

Miss Marion Hutchison, now representing the Board of National Missions of the Presbyterian Church, who has spent a year teaching in the American College in Teheran, Persia, spoke in College Chapel, Thursday morning, October 13, concerning her experiences in Persia.

Miss Hutchison addressed the Women's Synodical Society for Missions, which convened last week in Madison. It was through the efforts of President A. G. Parker that she appeared before the student body.

To the foreigner, Persia is a land of walls; mud walls for protection of their cities; walls of custom such as the one that women must veil their faces; walls of religion and of education. It is true that some of them are being torn down. For instance, the ruler in Teheran has decreed that the city wall be destroyed so that the American College may be seen by the public.

There is only one means by which the walls of tradition and religion may be broken down and this method is given in the following story which Miss Hutchison related.

A feature of the Mohammedan religion is that every follower must bow in prayer five times daily, facing Mecca, and that before each prayer, from the tower comes the call "God is God; Mohammed is your prophet; bow ye in prayer to Mohammed, your prophet." Immediately throughout the city, the people kneel on their prayer rugs and pray to God. But one morning there was a strange voice, a young voice, which called in firm tones: "God is God; Jesus Christ is your Savior; bow ye in prayer to Jesus Christ, your Savior." The city was astonished at this daring, and it was moved. It has never been discovered who the young man was or what became of him. If there were others like this youth the barriers might soon all be torn away, and the mothers would not hurriedly conceal their babies, wrapped in swaddling clothes, whenever they see a white woman, whom they all think is an evil spirit. Nor would the poor boys be sold into apprenticeship, nor the girls sold into the rug business. The monotony of the latter work may be discerned from the story of one girl who could tie three knots a minute at which rate it would require over eleven years to finish one of the beautiful Persian rugs.

The streets in Teheran are so narrow that a caravan cannot pass a man, without the latter pressing himself against the walls of the buildings. Through these streets run the water supply of the city, (Continued on page 4)

DR. PARKER ASKS ABOLISHMENT OF HOUSE DECORATIONS

MONEY COULD BE USED FOR OTHER PURPOSES

Late Thursday evening Dr. Parker issued a request to all organized houses and dormitories to do away with homecoming decorations at present. He says that there is no definite need for such expenditure of money.

Dr. Parker based his request on two reasons: "First, at present when every organization and the public as a whole are in such pressing circumstances and money is such a scarcity, there is no sense in such foolish expenditure of money; second, the organization, whoever it is, offering the cup has never received from the faculty permission to sponsor such a contest or offer a cup to the winner and unless the organization can give substantial reasons for such a competition and places them before the faculty, the practice of house decorations should be dropped."

Dr. Parker declares that all decorations are absolutely unnecessary expenses. The groups that decorate, could very easily use the money for more useful purposes and often take money that is set aside for a definite item to use for this. House decorations never last more than a day and are forgotten very shortly. Each house that decorates will spend twenty-five to forty dollars for a fifteen dollar cup.

Other schools all over the country have decided to drop the tradition. Indiana University was the leader in this state, followed by many houses on other campuses.

In the last few years the decoration sentiment has been dying out. Only a few now try for the prize. If those few could see the uselessness of the practice some of Hanover's "Useless Expenditures" would be cut.

Several of the organizations on the campus realize the uselessness and foolishness of decorating but decorate so as to be in style.

Dr. James Writes To Prof. Conklin

RELATES EXPERIENCES IN LONDON

Professor Conklin received a letter from Dr. James last week, stating that he and Mrs. James are now pleasantly settled in London. Dr. James says he is perfectly happy—deluged in a flood of five hundred volumes on Anglo-Persian historical relations.

Speaking of his experiences when he first entered the city, Dr. James says that he went to "the great building that contains all the public records of the empire." "When the recorder of human fates told me that my field of research contained five hundred volumes of history that had never been touched, I felt like packing up my things and quitting this whole silly business we call 'civilization'" he declares, "but as I'm here, I guess I'll stay."

In conclusion Dr. James sends greetings to all his friends at Hanover.

A Contrast

By JOHN CALDWELL

Picture to yourself a college campus shut in by the high walls and towers of a busy downtown district. The whole atmosphere is tinged with the grayness of washed-out soot, and the air at times is so full of gas from factories that it is hard to breathe. In the gutters lie scraps of muddled paper, cigar butts, and all the mess that a large city discards.

The campus itself is sparsely covered with wiry grass that approaches beauty only in the first flush of spring. The buildings are not old, but that unfortunate architecture that one senator has termed "spizzerintum." I had an empty feeling in my stomach whenever I approached this place. It wasn't anything like college for me. The campus was messy; piles of ashes were visible from three angles of the street; candy bars, half-eaten, were tossed with their wrappers at the very entrances. And, seemingly, this carelessness was reflected in the attitude of the students. No one cared particularly who his neighbor was—everyone was anxious to get away from the college as soon as possible. The halls were thick in dust, and old class papers protruded from almost every locker. Need I tell you more in order to make my point? You are all Hanover students and know the natural beauties of our campus. It should be easy to keep it as spotless as it has been in the five weeks that I have been here. Of course, I may not have yet seen anything but its most favorable side.

Helter-skelter: And the freshmen are even less cocky, Healy... The telephone rang at the Phi Gam house the other night. A freshman answered it and hurried to fraternity hall and announced, "There's a girl on the phone who says her date is late." All the Phi Gams present, rising, "Excuse me, please" . . . ## Cheer Up, Seniors, Good News

Cheer up, good news! The chariot's coming—the carrier of prosperity and employment. Already one-fourth of the senior class have joined the ranks of the employed! Although each member of the Practice Teacher Group had to pay the infinitesimally small sum of fifteen dollars to get a job, nine of them are actually engaged in practical work under the efficient direction of Dr. Kutz, Mr. Weir, Miss Mitchell, Mr. Van Liew, and Mr. Muncie of Madison.

Jean Shepherd is teaching the fundamentals of the physiological development of her kind in the freshman class here on the campus. Well, Jean ought to know how, for she's a splendid example.

Mahlon Lemen teaches a class of college freshman boys how to develop a strong physique. We all know that Mahlon will lay the basic foundation for some splendid athletes to represent Hanover College.

Now Mabel Raney and Stella Firth both have the distinction or privilege of teaching in Madison with Mr. Muncie. Mabel helps the sophomores with their geometry a while, then goes home and leaves Stella to flounder back to Hanover with "Knoebel's Scavenger".

Any keen observer will notice our honorable Maurice Traston either "thumping" with some girl or "hoofing it" out towards the high school at 2:10 sharp every afternoon, with all he knows packed in that big black brief-case. Now just how much history Maurice leaves with those juniors, only Poodle Manaugh can tell.

No doubt Emily Peel will have a whole class of modern poets from those juniors she's teaching, for she set a splendid example for the youngsters the other day in her Teaching of English Methods the other day under Professor Conklin. Occasionally in Jean Lewis's wanderings, she winds up in the senior civics class to teach those coming Hanoverians the straight and narrow path of upright citizenship. Jean has had plenty of experience, so we're sure she makes a splendid example.

We don't know just how much English Dorothy Miles has left in her after she pilots "Old Geeloppee" (that storm-king she drives) over to the high school, but after we've seen her cross-scratch, and mark those poor seventh grade youngsters' English papers, we assume that she has plenty of innate abil-

MY LATEST BOOK

A friend of mine, urged to read a book in which she had no interest, was told, "All right, go ahead and die without knowing what's in it!" I am repeating that to you, "Go ahead and die without reading The Autobiography of Lincoln Steffens, if you insist, but don't say I didn't tell you about it." I am willing to prophesy that you'll not find it like in Heaven, so get it in before you leave this mortal coil!

It is quite impossible to review adequately so long and detailed a volume within a short space. It is equally impossible for the reviewer to convey to others the fascination of so unusual an autobiography. It is written with such intelligence, such charm, such friendly humor, and such penetrating insight into people and situations, that the reader must discover these things for himself. What the reviewer can guarantee you is an absorbing interest in it from the story of Steffens' boyhood, until the final page is reached.

Steffens, always an individualist, found that his forte lay in newspaper and journalistic work. After college (where he says he was always at the foot of the class), and after a few years in Europe, he returned to the United States and joined the staff of the New York Evening Post. From then on he had a consuming interest in social problems, which led him into all sorts of experiments, investigations, and contacts with people. Some of these led him to Wall Street, to the political and financial bosses, to muckraking various cities, and finally to free lanceing. Always he takes the reader behind the scenes, always the story is fascinating. Steffens did not confine his activities to this country, but spent much of his time in Europe where he seemed to have the same facility for interviewing important people, and getting in on important events.

Running thru the entire book the philosophy of Steffens is apparent. Interested in reform, but not in righteousness, he felt that "honest crooks" were always preferable to "self-righteous Christians". One of his theories was that the church did not practice or preach the doctrines of Jesus. Steffens had a passion for facts, and went after them with the intensity so characteristic of his temperament. His interest in political reform, his activities in behalf of labor, his association with Clarence Darrow branded him as an anarchist. But his intimate knowledge of the affairs of the world, and his careful study of them, made him an adviser to many important men.

This book covers a span of many years, a combination of men and events and their influence on each other. But thru it all it is Lincoln Steffens with his penetrating, pungent comments, his realistic philosophy, his sense of humor that interests us. So die if you will without having this experience (for reading it is an experience), but don't say you weren't told of it!

Eleanor Peck Entorf.

ity, Dorothy's criticisms will almost equal Prof. Conklin's, so of course, we know she enjoys it.

Mary Blanche Jackson dashes over to the high school to teach the sophomores some English every afternoon, and if they don't become experts on grammar and the classics of literature, it won't be her fault.

Oh My Leg

If you go by what you hear there's all evidence that the "missing link" may appear in the freshman biology laboratory anytime this week. Don't be alarmed to hear someone remark "You've got my leg" or "Give me my eye". It's really not an eye for an eye, tooth for a tooth practice, but only a convenient way of getting the part of the grasshopper you're in need of.

The dainty white hands of the girls seem a wee bit reluctant to pick up the dead locust and probe here and there for missing parts.

The local Y. M. C. A. chapter attended the state training conference which was held at the "Y" building in Indianapolis last Saturday, Oct. 8. The purpose of the conference was to acquaint the various college and university associations with the work of the Y. M. C. A. throughout the institutions of the nation and to make public the celebration of Founder's Day, Oct. 11, in honor of Jack Williams, founder of the "Y" movement.

Those attending were: Prof. Barker, William Smythe, Lawrence Evans, Loren Martin, Bob Kunkler, Ernest Wichmann, Herman Allen, and William Faulds, who was elected secretary of the State Executive Committee.

Theta Kappa Nu has recently pledged the following: Robert Foster of Indianapolis, David Fox of Indianapolis, Gerald Miller of Scottsburg, Harold Malone of Salem, Walter Martin of New Salisbury, Charles Stuckey of Thorntown, and Robert Millican of Hanover.

But strange to say those same little hands find stranger parts that even Professor Hyatt ever dreamed the little animals contained. Such queer things as fins and claws are attributed to the unsuspecting insects.

If grasshoppers have feelings, they must be crushed and heart-broken to see their portraits on the drawing pads of the beginners, ranging all the way from a picture of a leaping frog to a dormant snail. But still we might take all this in another light and be at least cheerful about it. You know, it could be just another proof of evolution.

PANTHERS LOSE 13-7 TO DE PAUW

TIGERS WIN IN LAST QUARTER

The Panthers proved their mettle against DePauw last Saturday afternoon at Greencastle when the Methodists were forced to rally in the final quarter to achieve victory by the narrow margin of 13-7. The Red and Blue machine penetrated the Old Gold line consistently for large gains and in the second period Joe Maziekas, left-half, ran twenty yards for a touch-down and sent Hanover into the lead which they held until late in the fourth period. Then a pass from Wheaton was seen to streak from Wheaton through the deepening shadows into the arms of Fribley for the winning touch-down.

It was a heart-breaking set-back for the Panthers who outcharged their rivals most of the afternoon and stopped the DePauw ace, Don Wheaton, time after time before he was able to get beyond the line of scrimmage. But the track DePauw half-back raced thirty-five yards to score in the fourth quarter and then kicked the extra point to make the score 7-13.

Otto, "old Reliable," Meese carried the brunt of Hanover's offensive; his kicking and punting were big factors in the game. Guenther and Stines were outstanding in the Panther wall. Guenther intercepted four DePauw passes.

DePauw's triumph was in marked contrast to the victory over the Panthers last year and was gained only after a terrific struggle.

"BEAT EARLHAM" HANOVER SLOGAN

TEAM TO AVENGE LAST YEARS DEFEAT

Earlham's Quaker will invade the Panther lair next Saturday afternoon to do battle before a Homecoming audience. From all reports they are expecting to dampen the spirits of our homecoming by crushing Hanover, long a bitter and iron rival, before the eyes of the hopeful alumni. The Quakers are depending on their vaunted passing attack and a quartet of hard running backs to accomplish their aim. Last year Earlham defeated Hanover 13-0; most of their gains were made on passes. Likewise in other years the Quakers have been able to use passes effectively against the Red and Blue. In view of this fact, Coach Van Liew is working to perfect a defense against such an aerial attack. He feels that the Quakers will find it very hard to gain through the Panther line; if the forward wall holds true to form. The prevailing spirit among the players is "Beat Earlham."

HALLOWE'EN PARTY TO BE OCTOBER 28

MRS. BURGER GIVES INVITATION

The Ladies' Faculty Club will sponsor its annual Hallowe'en fancy dress party to be given Oct. 28, in the Fieldhouse at 7:00 o'clock. All the student body and the faculty are cordially invited to attend.

The traditional prizes will be given for the most artistic and the most comical costume, and the Hallowe'en Stunt Cup will be given to the organization which presents the best stunt. The cup is now in the possession of the Alpha Delta Pi girls. It becomes the permanent possession of any organization winning it for three consecutive years.

It is lots of fun and is a big event so everybody hunt up a costume and plan to come.

More plans will follow in the next issue of the Triangle.

"Did you ever play that corn shocks Were they put up in rows?
Did you ever breathe October air With a breath clear from your toes?"

Did you ever wonder 'bout the haze That hangs o'er hill and stream?
The boy who carves a pumpkin knows—
He says it's Hallowe'en."

SOCCER GAME ON HOME COMING DAY

UPPERCLASSMEN MEET SOPHOMORES

The Girls' Upperclass eleven will meet the Sophomore squad in a soccer game Saturday, Oct. 22 at 10:30. It has been the custom for some tournament game to be scheduled for the morning of homecoming, but as there is no regular game scheduled for that time the fray between these old rivals will take place.

The Junior-Senior aggregation is captained by Jean Shepherd, while Thelma Ernest will act as captain of the Soph team.

Soccer has proved a popular sport on the campus, so an interesting game should be given to the spectators.

Panthers Battle Tigers Saturday

Saturday, October 15th, the Panthers met the DePauw Tigers at DePauw. Last year the Tigers defeated Hanover, 64-0, but this year, with the graduation of most of last year's Tiger squad and the outstanding performance of the Panther line, the score should be much different.

Coach Van Liew has been practicing his lineups on the running attack of Wheaton, an all-state half last year, and drilling his backfield in the passing attack of the Tigers. Up to date the DePauw line has been rather weak, and if the Hanover backs can show a good running attack, mixed in with some good kicking and passing DePauw will encounter plenty of competition. The game will start promptly at 2:00 P. M.

Saturday for Homecoming, the Earlhamites are coming down a hundred percent strong. They are making this day an outing for the entire school. Let's give them a rousing welcome.

And the DePauw Coach said to Coach Van Liew, "If I only had your line."

Panther Paws

By FRITZ CHAPMAN

Thursday evening the twenty-eight big lights that line Wood's field were on for the last time this season. The Evansville game was the last contest this year to be played at night.

The only thing wrong with these night games is that the bleachers are not steam heated. Possibly we can do something about it for next year.

Wheaton, the "Tiger's" star back intercepted a pass and ran seventy yards for a touchdown during the game with Miami last week. They were defeated though 33 to 13.

Did you know that in 1896 Hanover erected her first gymnasium?

The size was sixty-five by thirty-three feet. The building was destroyed by fire in 1908 and another built the same year with a basketball floor space of forty-by-seventy feet. It was formally opened by President Mills on the evening of December 17, 1909.

It has also been reported that Coach Van Liew tried to bribe the head linesman. He told him that he would buy him a drink if Hanover won. He should have told him that he would buy him a new car!

Guenther seemed to mess up the DePauw aerial attack. He just wouldn't let the pigskin pass him. Nice going!

Well, well, and well! The boys from the hill-top somewhat showed the "Tigers" that Hanover can put out a team also. I'll bet that for at least fifty minutes the DePauw rooters were feeling pretty low. It was tough that they could nit have had that same feeling for the next ten minutes of the game.

PHI GAMS; BETAS WIN TENNIS GAMES

PHI DELTS AND THETA NUS DRAW

The Intramural tennis tournament is at last under way, and a good brand of tennis is being shown by all the teams. The match scheduled for Monday between the Phi Gams and the Theta Nus was postponed on account of rain and will be played at the end of the schedule. Tuesday the Betas defeated the Phi Deltas in the two singles matches, making it unnecessary to play the doubles. The Phi Gams defeated the Independents Wednesday, winning one singles and the doubles. Thursday the Phi Deltas and Theta Nus fought to a draw which will be played off at a later date. They split the singles and each had one set in the doubles when the game was called by the football practice.

From these appearances Hanover should have a first class tennis team next spring. The sort of tennis being shown in the Intramural matches is equal to that of the varsity teams of the last few years.

The schedule for this week is as below:

Monday ---Beta Theta Phi vs. Phi Gamma Delta
Tuesday ---Independents vs. Theta Kappa Nu
Wednesday ---Phi Gamma Delta vs. Phi Delta Theta
Thursday ---Beta Theta Phi vs. Independents.

Come out at 3:00 and cheer your favorite team to victory.

W. A. A. BOARD TO MEET REGULARLY

WILL DISCUSS W. A. A. BUSINESS

A meeting of the W. A. A. board consisting of the officers and all of the sports managers will be held every first and third Tuesday at 6:45 P. M. but a special one was held October 13.

These meetings will probably take care of much of the business which previously took up most of the time of the regular W. A. A. meetings on the second and fourth Tuesday nights of each month.

Tonight definite plans will be made for publishing W. A. A. booklets for the freshmen. These booklets will contain the constitution of "The Women's Athletic Association" over which the freshmen must take an exam before becoming members of the organization. Evangeline Farrell is in charge of this project.

Freshman and sophomore sports managers will also be assigned special duties for the year. Such jobs as collecting material for the bulletin board, taking care of athletic equipment, making posters, and so on will be mentioned and the sports managers may volunteer for the particular work they prefer.

BASKETBALL MEN REPORT TO GYM

PRACTICE TURN OVER TO McNULTY

When Coach Van Liew made the call for basketball men a large number turned out, considering that most of last year's material is out for football. Most of the new men are Freshmen and were put under the observation of Dan McNulty. The purpose for the early practice is so that the new men may become better acquainted with the floor, and to sharpen that old basket eye. Hanover has a very promising basketball season ahead in as much as only one man from last year's line-up is missing. Those men that turned out for the first roll-call, were: Menzoi, Burchart, Espey, Warn, Malshary, Barnes, Gilliland, Wagner, Davis, Roney, Harris and Foster.

FRESHMAN DEBATE SCHEDULE COMPLETE

CUP WILL BE AWARDED DECEMBER 8

Resolved: "That the United States Call a Disarmament Conference at which it announces to the world that it is putting into effect a reduction of one-third in its land, sea, and air equipments and personnel." This is the formal statement of the question over which the freshmen debaters will match wits and display skill. Not only has the question been stated in debating parlance, but Prof. Conklin has announced the following schedule:

Alpha Delta Pi vs. Independent Women, Wed., Nov. 10.
Beta Theta Pi vs. Phi Gamma Delta, Thurs., Nov. 11.
Independent Men vs. Phi Mu, Tuesday, Nov. 15.
Theta Kappa Nu vs. Phi Delta Theta, Thurs., Nov. 17.

The semi-finals will be held on the 22nd and 29th of the same month and the final debate for the loving cup will be held on the 8th of December.

DR. ADAMS LECTURES IN CHAPEL SERVICE

UNEXPECTED GUEST OF COLLEGE

Dr. Adams, a graduate of Hanover College in the class of 1896, spoke in Chapel Wednesday morning, October 12. He discussed the evils of forgetting the essentials of life.

He illustrated the possibility of forgetting, by the story found in the second chapter of Luke, where the Child Jesus was left in Jerusalem. It is human to forget, but society will pay the penalty for not remembering and appreciating the common things of life for it is they that are essential. Man neglects to be thankful for air, shelter, and water, but what is more reprehensible is that we do not recognize the one who serves others.

Recently, Western College for Women at Oxford, Ohio, conferred the M.D. degree upon a woman who is not spectacular in any field, nor well known, but who has made a success of home making and of motherhood, which after all is a position which requires the most efficiency, talent, and careful training of all the professions.

Dr. Adams is hoping to see the time when institutions of learning over the world will give degrees to women who have made good in home making.

"Much of the restlessness in society is due to the applauding of only unusual things and people," as a result of which no one is satisfied, Dr. Adams declared, as does Arthur Brisbane, the newspaper columnist, "We have forgotten the essential things of life." The world would indeed be grateful to the one who "creates an atmosphere of appreciation of the man who is content to serve."

CLUBS

By LOUISE PAVEY

The planned meeting and picnic of the French Club has been indefinitely postponed because of the illness of Miss Anderson, sponsor of the Club. At the next meeting election of officers will hold a prominent place in the program.

A meeting of the Spanish Club will be held Thursday night, October 20.

Chapel Choir, under the direction of Prof. Polansky, held practice Thursday night, October 13, at the Presbyterian church.

The next meeting of the Education Club will be at Classic Hall Thursday, October 20 at 7:45. The program will be sponsored by the program committee, of which Maxine Collier is chairman, with Mildred Thompson and Dorothy Humphrey as assistants.

Posters

Who is it, or what is it that's putting the "over" in Hanover? Did you know that Hanover is fully equipped and fully accredited, and that with its small enrollment stands ahead of 90% of the colleges and universities in its number in Who's Who? If not, then you have not seen the new colored posters.

The school publicity department started early this summer on its work of making Hanover well-known to all prospective students. Posters were in order, and so Miss Estelle Izor, a teacher in the Indianapolis schools and an artist of some note, spent most of her vacation this summer painting the familiar bend in the river as we see it from the library. The setting is a study in green, overlooking the banks of the Ohio. A wee corner of the library, stands at the left. Three students, well-known but hardly recognizable, make their way toward Classic Hall. Their names are not mentioned for fear of strays bricks which the models might be inclined to hurl at the reporter's head.

The poster stands nineteen inches high and below the picture is a world of information about the school. Do you know when it was founded? How many are now attending? You'll find it all on these attractive new posters.

They're being sent to churches, libraries, and schools so that others may know just what Hanover offers to its student body. Be sure and see them at once. Take one home with you over the week-end. They are another nice way of saying that there's a grand old college nestling on the Indiana shore.

MARION HUTCHISON TALKS TO STUDENTS

melted snow from the mountains. Camels, dogs, cats, and men, all drink from this water in which dishes, clothes, and babies are washed. Even the college students who have learned that their food should be washed, attempt to cleanse it in this filthy water.

Miss Hutchison was very much amused to discover what the Persian word for bread means in English. The bread is baked in loaves, two feet by one foot. The word in the Persian language cannot be written since their alphabet is different from ours, but it means a woman's tongue.

As she said after her address, she likes to talk of Persia, and would have liked to have told more about the dress, which has little likeness to European styles, and of the politeness of the people. The food is mainly rice, buttermilk, and fruits. Persia is an interesting country, whose hope for salvation lies in the Christian religion.

Martin Leads Chapel

Rev. J. Walker Martin, pastor of the Rykers Ridge Baptist church and a student of Hanover college led the student body in song service at Chapel Tuesday morning.

The main feature of the program was a pipe organ effect, made by the freshmen humming together. Negro spirituals and old time hymns were sung first in unison and then in groups.
